

ANIBAL BOGLIACCINI, FRSA

Independent University and Educational Counselor & Life Planning Coach

My mission is to help every student find the right path for the future, whether it may be college, university or any other possibility beyond high school. It is a journey of self-exploration with amazing opportunities that will open the door to an exciting future. I measure my success on a student's accomplishments and pride at the end of this exciting journey.

I provide one-to-one tutoring and guidance to students and their families, helping them to secure their place at the top university of their choice, while making the process of applications clear, manageable and successful.

Accreditation: Counseling Training Center: International Counseling Certification - Principal Training Center: International principal certification - Institute for International Counselors College Board: International College University Counseling
Education: CLAEH Universidad Postgraduate degree in Adolescent Psychology (Uruguay) - Middlebury College MA Spanish Studies – History – (USA) - University of New Mexico MFA / MA - Painting and Art Therapy (USA) - Marlboro College B.A. Sociology of Education (USA)

As independent university specialists, I go beyond what your current school might offer, which enables you to access world-class universities everywhere.

A college and university counselor at your school works with a large number of students, and while there is an important need for schools to have on-site counselors, sometimes a student needs extra, more personal help in drafting essays, setting up a viable plan, or managing art portfolios.

I work with students of all abilities. I provide students with tools—from state-of-the-art software to sage advice, from interview skills to exceptional mentoring for essays and applications, all with an organized and planned program.

Each student is infinitely unique with varying skill sets and accomplishments. I work individually to best prepare each student with a plan that it is tailor-made to their individual needs.

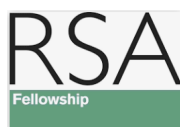

My background in psychology and social emotional counseling, working with special needs students, together with my professional training as an artist gives me the tools to specialize in college-bound students with learning differences as well as students who aspire to enter competitive art schools around the world.

Learning Differences:

- I have extensive experience in guiding students with learning differences through the college admissions process.
- I am skilled in adapting the college planning process to learning differences, including the essay and application process.
- I have lifelong contacts in college learning support offices.
- I have a long history of successful college placements for students with learning differences on four continents.
- I have guided a multitude of students through each step of the college admissions process.
- I am skilled in adapting the college planning process to each student's specific needs.
- I ensure that my students feel confident and excited about college.

Art Portfolio Preparation:

I successfully help international art, design, architecture, fashion, and textiles students to enter top universities around the world. Additionally, I help my students create successful professional portfolios for their dream jobs, as well as in preparing art portfolios leading up to your specialist field for UCAS applications. I have an MFA in painting and have been a professional artist. My work is represented at galleries in Madrid, Washington DC, and Montevideo.
